David Icke is a truly prolific author, lecturer, and researcher, covering some of the most advanced knowledge and information on the planet. His books tend to recap his prior works and then add on some new material and some more expanded ideas about how to integrate and comprehend what he has uncovered. He covers a vast amount of material (this new book is over 900 pages in length) and connects together a number of topics and areas of research. Many of the topics relate to conspiratorial forces at work in human society as well as metaphysics and occult science, showing how limited our perception of reality truly is. Icke has a good grasp of the concepts in physics and metaphysics which demonstrate how illusory and narrow our perception of reality is, and how consciousness/awareness is what underlies everything. Icke goes through a lot of details about extraterrestrial influences on human civilization and how much of this relates to what he now refers to as the "archons" and their agenda. Archons is a term from ancient Gnostic writings, which refers to the dark/evil forces that hijack Creation for their own manipulative pursuits. Icke considers the "reptilians" he has long spoken about to be one major expression of the Archon consciousness, but not the only one. He describes how satanism and pedophilia are deeply connected to those dark power structures, and goes over how human beliefs systems are pretty much all "bollocks," i.e. full of B.S. that separates us from our true spiritual power and freedom. Icke repeats his mantra that infinite love and infinite possibility are the only truth, with all else being illusion. He, of course, spends a lot of time examining the multiple levels of the illusion and how they function.

Ok, let me start off by saying that I am and always strive to be both skeptical and open minded. I purchased this book because I had over heard a few people I know talking about him, and after reading several explanations and reviews of his books, and some online forum's I figured, what the heck, I'll give it a shot. This is a massive tome, and I can say it is well published and durable which is always nice when you have to sink some significant money into a book, such as with this one. Icke's style of writing isn't bad, he is fairly lucid in tying his arguments and theories together, and the amount of pictures and side commentary doesn't detract. Why I have given this book two stars is, I'm sorry, don't shoot me, but it is almost 95% assumptions, and 5% grey truths, granted the topic and theories which are being discussed, from the premise of what Icke is pontificating can't be proven wrong necessarily because it goes exactly against what Icke says the "archons" are trying, or more pointedly as Icke believes, actually doing to us. Now don't get me wrong, I have no delusions that our world/s; cultures, governments and general state of thought are 100% accurate as they are presented that would just be naive, And I do agree with Icke's overarching premise that there are indeed some very FUBAR stuff going on with different governments and Social Orders. But as the old saying goes, Correlation doesn't automatically mean Causation. One example of this in the book would be when Icke has a picture of a Natural Rock formation, which when looking at it could, and Icke does, construes it as being reptilian in shape.
